

Milan Fashion Campus Opens the First On-Line Italian Fashion Design School

The principal purpose for the "Milan Fashion Campus" is to use the Web to extend a global Italian fashion style code.

Milano, Italy -.Angelo Russica just opened the first Web-based design school devoted to teaching the skills, history and aesthetics of Italian fashion. For more than 20 years, Angelo Russica the creator of this course, has been making his mark in the world of fashion. In over 15 years as a creative assistant, Angelo Russica has built up an experience collaborating with companies from around the world, such as Gianni Versace (where he was assistant for 5 years), Marzotto, Gruppo Max Mara, Miroglio Vestebene, in Spain with El Corte Ingles and Induyco, and in Japan with, Chori, Fujii, World Company, King Company.....

During his years in fashion, Angelo picked up many complaints from young people who frequented famous fashion schools. Unfortunately the students realized that after three years of study, they had just spent a lot of money, but found no place to work. Often graduates did not even have the possibility to make a stage. This is the reason why this course has been created. Milan Fashion Campus gives young people the possibility to learn about the world of fashion without spending a fortune.

This inimitable professional fashion design courses gives students the possibility to keep in touch with Italian Fashion Design Learning Method. The On-Line fashion intensive design course seeks to qualify highly professional figures to be the new fashion designers of the future. The individual lessons are built upon each other so that the student can easily follow the whole professional course. The lessons require students participate actively: they show learners how to analyze the market, how to find sources of information the need or how to find inspiration. The students will learn what fashion professional designers do: look at street, look at the fashion story, look at the world of music, look at the opinion leaders. The on-line fashion design course has 7 Sections- 27 Chapters - 197 pages and more then 170 Exercises, which guide the student from first sketch to fashion show
